

Working Library
of the late Professor Petra K. Kappert (1945-2004)

Ottoman History

- 262 titles in a total of 365 volumes, published between the early 16th and late 20th centuries,
- Published primarily in Ottoman Turkish, Arabic, English, Persian, French, Russian, Latin, and German.
- The collection includes a number of rare publications like two volumes printed by Ibrahim Müteferrika and Tvrccici Imperii status. Seu Discursus varij de Rebus Turcarum (1630)

This very focussed working library is dedicated to Ottoman and Turkish history, law, politics, and diplomacy. Spanning several centuries of scholarship this working library provides an excellent foundation for advanced research into the political and institutional heritage of the Ottoman Empire.

PRIMARY SOURCES AND ESSENTIAL HISTORIOGRAPHY: Foundational Ottoman chronicles and biographical dictionaries, including the multi-volume works of Cevdet Paşa, İsmail Hakkı Uzunçarşılı, and Bursalı Mehmed Tahir. Scholars will find extensive resources detailing the intricacies of Ottoman governance, such as provincial administration (Sancaktan Eyalete), religious endowments (Vakıflar), and legal systems (Türk Hukuk Tarihi).

EUROPEAN PERSPECTIVES form another pillar of this library with 16th-century texts by early diplomats like Busbecq, alongside the Osmanische Geschichtsschreiber series. These translations of Ottoman chronicles offer invaluable insights into major military campaigns, diplomatic missions, and the broader European-Ottoman cultural exchange, covering conflicts from the Siege of Vienna to the Safavids.

DECLINE OF THE OLD EMPIRE AND BIRTH OF MODERN TURKEY:

The collection bridges the gap between the empire's twilight and the birth of modern Turkey, featuring extensive materials on the late 19th and early 20th centuries, the Young Turks, the Balkan Wars, and Atatürk's foundational reforms.
